THE WORLD AFFAIRS COUNCIL OF BOSTON

is pleased to present

ADMIRAL STANSFIELD TURNER

Director of Central Intelligence

Admiral Stansfield Turner was sworn in as Director of Central Intelligence on March 9, 1977. In this position he heads the various intelligence agencies of the United States including the best known of these, the Central Intelligence Agency (C.I.A.).

After graduation from Annapolis Admiral Turner was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University. Following his work at Oxford he held a variety of sea and shore assignments, including command of a guided missile frigate and service as Naval Aide to the Secretary of the Navy. In 1970 he was promoted to Rear Admiral and assumed command of a Carrier Task Group of the Sixth Fleet. Two years later he became the 36th President of the Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island with rank of Vice Admiral. In 1974 he took command of the U.S. Second Fleet and served in that capacity until 1975 when he was named Commander-in-Chief, Allied Forces Southern Europe. At that time he was promoted to the rank of Admiral. He served in that capacity until assuming his present duties in 1977.
